RESEARCH

I study food, people, and land, and how they shape each other through cooking and eating. My work traces the relationships between flavour, ecology & evolution, and biocultural diversity, and their politics in the Anthropocene. I work with microbes & fermentation, gastronomic innovation, agricultural politics, and sustainability, across science & technology studies, environmental humanities, and multispecies anthropology.

In my group, Sustainable Food Innovation, we use culinary research and development to make flavourful sustainable foods, natural sciences to study how they work, and social sciences to explore how they can contribute to food culture. Through this union of innovation, transdisciplinary research, and open knowledge-sharing, we work for a food system that is more sustainable, equitable, and transparent, offering foods that are more diverse, nourishing, and delicious.

ACADEMIC POSITIONS

Senior Researcher (Associate Professor without teaching) & Group Leader, Sustainable Food	2021-present
Innovation, Center for Biosustainability, Technical University of Denmark

DEGREES

DPhil	University of Oxford, Geography and the Environment	2022
MPhil	University of Cambridge, History and Philosophy of Science (First)	2017
B.A.	Yale University, Humanities (with Distinction)	2012

ADDITIONAL EDUCATION

Visiting PhD student, Section for Evolutionary Genomics, GLOBE Institute, University of	2018-2020
Copenhagen
Université d'Été: «Les Sens Dans L'Alimentation», Institut Européen d'Histoire et des Cultures	2014

de l'Alimentation, Université François-Rabelais de Tours MSc course: Microbiology of Fermented Foods and Beverages (final mark: 12/12), Department of 2013

Food Science, University of Copenhagen
